

Instructions for Joining ASCM as a Student Member

Visit www.ASCM.org and select Become a Member from the toolbar.

Select "Student" from the Discount Menu

When selecting "Student" as shown in the highlighted below, the membership ends up being FREE for the student (not $99 as shown below for a non-student membership).

Discounts are available for Students, Recent Graduates, Academic, Federal Employee, Active Duty Military, and Unemployed.

OR - Go directly to here:

Select a Local Membership Partner

What are local membership partners? ▲

For a nominal fee, you can join a local ASCM membership organization and maximize your access to industry professionals, knowledge, and community.

ASCM Chapters and International Membership Partners focus on delivering APICS training, including CPIM, CSCP and CLTD certification. They also provide local member engagement and professional development opportunities.

ASCM Forums focus exclusively on driving local member engagement in a variety of ways. While forums don't conduct APICS training, forum leaders can provide you with guidance on what certifications would be beneficial given your career goals.

Local ASCM membership dues stay with the local organization and help to support programs and fund local membership growth.

Student Membership is free for eligible students. Simply visit www.ascm.org and select Become a Member at the top of the page. The option for the discounted student membership is in the gray text below the membership menu. Select Student and add to the product to cart. On the next screen, Students will be asked to enter identifying information for the instant verification process. Once the student status has been positively verified, the student will be directed to select a local networking partner and create log in credentials. The check out page will display their student membership selections with no cost associated. The student must complete the check out process in order for the membership to become active.
